

Making second-hand come first

InspectaCar has celebrated a major revamp of its Pretoria business with six dealerships now across the city.

Recently, the leader in trusted pre-owned car sales entertained guests at events to relaunch Pretoria North (Ben Viljoen St), Wonderboom (Steve Biko and De Beer streets), Gezina (Johan Heyns Dr), Centurion East (John Vorster and Oak streets) and Lifestyle Motors Centurion (Old Joburg Rd and Lenchen), offering a great day out.

They could admire the quality vehicles for sale, speak to the experts on the dealership floor, take a test drive, or relax with food and activities. There were DJs to entertain, a play area with jumping castles for the kids and lucky draws for a range of fantastic prizes.

Who would have thought that when InspectaCar opened its first dealership in Pretoria in 2002, it would today be where it is, said chief executive Pertunia Sibanyoni. The recent events were the “epitome of InspectaCar’s journey to greatness”.

InspectaCar offers a large range of trusted pre-owned cars, and promises customers confidence because they can trust that what they buy has gone through InspectaCar checks.

She said InspectaCar was committed to its brand promise that “second-hand will never feel second best” by providing service excellence throughout the entire purchase journey.

The brand gives its franchisees a business model that focuses on access to stock affiliations to provide superior second-hand vehicles.

“Our franchisees have the benefit of InspectaCar brand marketing initiatives, coupled with the backing of the WesBank brand,” Sibanyoni said.
